The Modern Public Square: Privacy & Artificial Intelligence

In Packingham vs. North Carolina, the Supreme Court equated the internet to the proverbial “public square.” In addition to helping define democracy and free speech, the public square has also helped defined privacy – if you could observe something in the public, it was by definition not private. So in the modern public square of the internet, what is and is not private? Where does anyone draw the line based upon informed consent, private vs public platforms and when is government oversight appropriately applied to private platforms in light of the freedom of speech? The experts on this panel will discuss their experiences with these difficult concepts, the power of technology to support good and concerns about managing the modern public square.

Moderator: Attorney General Todd Rokita, Indiana
Speakers:

- Hoan Ton-That, Founder and CEO, Clearview

Presenter:
Robin Koval, CEO & President, Truth Initiative

9:45am – 10:45am

Evolving Litigation Trends

Litigation is growing increasingly complex for State Attorneys General and businesses alike. Novel theories of liability are being asserted by municipalities and other non-governmental litigants. The use of outside counsel, consulting firms, third party litigation funding, and new private rights of action in areas such as data privacy are fueling today's litigation. These and other trends are prompting Attorneys General to revisit their traditional litigation strategies. This panel will provide expertise and give valuable insight on methods to successfully address these litigation challenges and will also explore ways Attorneys General and businesses can navigate these issues together.

Moderator: Attorney General Ken Paxton, Texas

Speakers:
